America at the Crossroads: Developing the Blueprint for Our Future
Panel Overview:
For some youth, mentoring is the motivating factor that helps them see new possibilities for their lives because it exposes them to successful men and women they many never encounter in their formative years. This workshop offers orientation and training into the bedrock and purpose of mentoring. The word ‘mentor’ refers to ‘lived knowledge’, it comes from an old practice in which the mentor acts as guide and teacher. Participants will discover and clarify what they have to offer in the way of teaching, guiding and mentoring others.

Facilitators:
- Dr. Joshua Murfree Jr.
- Monique Y. Taylor

Workshop-D - Fund Development and Marketing: Make the Ask, Market the Cause
3:45 p.m. - 5:15 p.m.
Location: Room 307
Overview:
This workshop focuses on the importance of the MOU and successful grant writing. Participants will learn about the key components of a successful grant writing session. The workshop will cover the process of writing a grant, including the evaluation of the MOU, successful strategies, and the benefits of grant writing.
Facilitators:
- Milton Jones
- Karen Fordham

Workshop-E - Clean Talk Feedback Model: How to Effectively Manage Debilitating Conflict Within Your Chapter and Important Relationships
3:45 p.m. - 5:15 p.m.
Location: Room 303
Overview:
This experiential workshop will discuss and demonstrate how to frame your conversation so that you can authenticly say what you’re really thinking and help others to really hear you. You will have an opportunity to practice how to achieve mutual and effective closure to issues that may cause relationships, groups, and chapters to be ineffective and sometimes destructive. Participants will learn empirical theory from the Applied Behavioral Sciences and use a time tested practical model on how to have tough conversations and avoid destroying relationships. We think we can all agree that our youth and communities are too important to allow misunderstandings and personalities to get in the way of our work.
Facilitator: Al Sullivan

Workshop-F - Deep Dive into Current Issues in Our Communities and The Impact They Have on Mentoring in Our Communities
3:45 p.m. - 5:15 p.m.
Location: Regency 1
Overview:
Sustaining an African-American mentoring program with middle, high school or college students requires dedicated member, consistent activities, engaged students, passion and commitment. In this open discussion led by Chapter and Collegiate 100 Presidents, we will dive deep into the issues that are plaguing our communities today, address community challenges that have a negative impact on our mentoring efforts while sharing strategies and solutions that can make a difference in the lives of our youth and young adults of color.
Facilitators:
- Dr. Joshua Murfree
- Monique Y. Taylor
- Carl Tutt

Adult Workshop II: Educational Reform and School Choice: Pathways to Innovative Learning or Deferred Dreams
2:30 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.
Location: Regency 3
Overview:
The challenges of educating Black youth in this day and time continue to be characterized by lower than desired achievement rates, high disciplinary rates, low high school graduation rates, and low college eligibility rates for those who do graduate high school. In response to these crisis, educational advocates have argued for specific reforms in the process of teaching children and adolescents that transform curriculum, challenge existing pedagogy assumptions, confront leadership, enhance teacher competency and cultural awareness, and employ models and methods that promise different outcomes. Questions remain regarding whether these proposed and actual reforms can deliver on the promises they make or whether they are left with an equally wide gap between aspiration and actualization. This workshop will bring together both education experts, advocates and reformers to discuss these trends and determine whether the changes being implemented in schools across the country can deliver on the promises they make or whether they are left with an equally wide gap between aspiration and actualization. This workshop will bring together both education experts, advocates and reformers to discuss these trends and determine whether the changes being implemented in schools across the country can deliver on the promises they make or whether they are left with an equally wide gap between aspiration and actualization.

Leadership begins with the right education. There exists a perception in America that some young people lack interest in education and are becoming increasingly reluctant to take on any real leadership roles. Not true! Young people are some of the most active members in our communities today. During this open panel discussion, participants will have an opportunity to ask questions and receive feedback from our panel of well-known, experienced, national leaders from diverse industries. Participants will leave empowered with information on how the panelists’ education helped develop them as leaders, along with tools to ignite the leader within each of them.

Overview: Not only will students showcase their talents, but they will discuss their educational experience and address the following questions: What is working in education? What gaps need to be fulfilled? What unique practices and programs have worked in schools throughout the country?

10:30 a.m - 11:30 a.m. Delegates Assembly
Location: Regency 2
Target Audience: Board of Directors, Chapter Presidents, and Delegates
