Parents, teachers, legislative, and community leaders need to work together to advocate for high-quality education and performing schools. Having a high-quality education at a high-quality performing school makes all the difference for students who are seeking to further their education beyond high school. Participants will leave knowing the impact high-quality education has on students, the benefits quality classroom teachers have on students' success, and the advocacy steps needed to ensure high-quality education is provided at all schools regardless of the performance of the educational system.

EDUCATION

The 100 Black Men of America, Inc. has been educating and empowering youth for over three decades.

The original concept of providing education and support to youth began with a group of African American men in New York in 1963. Today, hundreds of chapters work with local school systems, along with corporate and community partners, to deliver educational support services and unique learning opportunities that assist youth in achieving their educational goals.

As a leader in mentoring, educating and empowering youth, it was a natural progression for 100 Black Men to become partners and sponsors with schools. In some locations, 100 chapters have chartered and are operating schools. The themes of achieving excellence and partnering with school boards, parents and the community resonates across all these schools. The 100's education initiatives inspire confidence, create cultural awareness and foster academic leadership.

HEALTH & WELLNESS

The 100's health and wellness goals are to raise awareness, provide access to health care and give health information that will ultimately promote behavior change resulting in a healthier lifestyle. The organization's Health & Wellness Committee provides leadership to chapters as they establish health & wellness committees at the local level.

Through civic and corporate partnerships, the 100 delivers health education programs and free health screenings in hundreds of communities annually.

One's health is their wealth. The 100 understands that a person's zip code influences their health more so than their genetic makeup.

ECONOMIC EMPOWERMENT

The 100 Black Men of America, Inc. (The 100) considers economic empowerment necessary for creating just societies around the world. The 100 defines economic empowerment as the ability to be self-determined in creating dreams, pursuing them and ultimately perpetuating them by establishing the mechanisms to sustain generational wealth. Program initiatives promote generational economic self-sufficiency through financial literacy, family wealth building, and entrepreneurship.

COLLEGIATE 100 CHAPTERS

The Collegiate 100 is an auxiliary organization of an active 100 Black Men Chapter and students are enrolled full time in colleges and universities across America. The purpose of the Collegiate 100 is to implement the mentoring and tutoring programs of their 100 Black Men Chapter. The students assist the parent organization as Near-Peer Mentors, tutors and act as positive role models for middle and high school Mentees.
